Gopher recruits showcased at Breakdown Classic

By Bruce Strand

Minnesota Gophers coach Rick Pittino and two assistants attended Saturday's Breakdown Classic in Hopkins to watch their three in-state recruits along with a sophomore they'd love to get.

Daniel Oturu, Gopher recruit from Cretin-Derham Hall, goes up for a dunk against Hopkins.

There was one scary moment for the Gopher coaches, not to mention Cretin-Derham Hall coach Jerry Kline and his team, as Daniel Oturu went down in a heap after turning his ankle in the first half of the Raiders' 86-73 win over Hopkins and had to leave the game.

However, the 6-foot-10 Oturu told Minnesota Basketball Hub after the game, "I'll be fine. I feel a lot better now." Kline said they would "play it by ear" and not rush him back.

Oturu had just blocked a shot by Hopkins' 6-foot-11 Joe Hedstrom, a Wisconsin recruit, when he landed awkwardly on Hedstrom's foot, causing the injury. Oturu had six points and three blocks before his early exit.

Gopher recruit Jarvis Omersa of Orono blocks a shot by Armstrong's Ben Inniger.

Sy Chatman, 6-foot-8 forward signed by Sienna, moved to the center slot and poured in 33 points to lead the Raiders. Jaden King added 22 and Ryan Larson 19. DJ Davis and Zeke Nnaji tallied 16 each for Hopkins and Anthony Davis had 13.

Jalen Suggs of Minnehaha Academy, were the other stars being viewed by Pittino and assistants Ben Johnson and Kimani Young.

Kalscheur, 6-foot-4 guard, nailed 31 points but the Islanders lost to Iowa City West 65-62. Kalscheur missed a couple free shots late in the game and had a potential game-tying three-pointer blocked at the buzzer. Iowa City West's slim, fluid 6-foot-10 Patrick McCaffrey, son of Hawkeye coach Fran, led with 23 points, including two free shots for the lead with 20 seconds left.

Asked about senior year goals, Kalscheur said, "Another state championship, and be dominant on the court and lead my team. I've been working on my passing and rebounding, and I take a lot of pride in my defense."

About his next team, Kalscheur commented, "Oh, yes, I've been watching the Gophers. They look really good this year."

Omersa, a superb athlete at 6-foot-8 and 230 pounds, racked up 18 points and 17 rebounds, shooting 7-for-9, as Orono turned back Armstrong 64-50. Thomas Lecy also scored 18 points.

Minnehaha Academy played in the late game, edging East Ridge 60-58. East Ridge held Suggs to eight point Ja-Vonnie Bickham scored 19 and Kaden Johnson 10 for the Redhawks, Courtney Brown poured in 29 points for East Ridge and Zach Zebrowski 15, the latter missing a three for the win at the horn.

Morgan Hill blazing own trail at South

By Bruce Strand

Scoring two thousand points would normally be at least a family record, if not a school record, but that's not the case for Morgan Hill. Still, the Minneapolis South senior is established as one of the metro area's premier players this season.

The sister of former Miss Basketball and current WNBA player Tayler Hill, she tallied 23.9 points per game as a junior, leading a 23-6 team, including 39 against Lakeville South. She started this season with games of 26 and 33 points, pushing over 2,000 to a current 2,031.

Morgan Hill, sister of Minneapolis South legend Tayler Hill, went over 2,000 points for the Tigers this week.

One of seven kids in her family, Hill is likely to become the third sibling to play Division I. Both Tayler and her brother P.J. played for Ohio State. Morgan has not picked a college.

And the next Hill, Jade, is a freshman guard for the Tigers. She averaged 13 points as an eighth-grader and 10 as a seventh-grader, and started this season with games of 14 and 19 for the Tigers (1-1).

Morgan told the Star-Tribune last season that she's more of a relentless driver than Tayler, a brilliant outside shooter who could also penetrate.

"I drive, take it to the hole and try and get the foul," said Morgan, who also plays tenacious defense.

Tayler Hill scored 3,888 points for South, including 47 in the 2009 state finals win over Centennial, then led the Big Ten in scoring twice with Ohio State. She's has played five WNBA seasons with the Washington Mystics.

No. 1 Hopkins impresses in 84-68 win over Centennial

By Bruce Strand

The top-ranked Hopkins girls lived up to their billing as they scuttled No. 4 Centennial 84-68 in the most high-profile duel of the Breakdown Classic last Saturday.

garded as probably the state's top player, led the Royals with 23 points. Raena Suggs added 18 points and Jaide Presley 12.

"I was impressed by Paige Bueckers most of all," said Jill Becken, Centennial coach. "She is so unselfish and so strong a finisher at the rim. She is the real deal!"

Taylor McAuley pumped in 20 points, Claire Orth 16 and Sydney Stapleton 13 for Centennial, which had trouble at times with Hopkins' full-court pressure.

Becken praised Hopkins for its "pressure, court awareness, and relentless defense. We would fight to get within seven points or so and then boom, they'd get a couple quick buckets off some mistakes and be up by double figures."

Becken said her team played well for the most part and added, "I hope we get the opportunity to play this great opponent again."

Class 2A's top-ranked Sauk Centre girls (4-0) also sparkled at the Breakdown with a 63-36 conquest of Anandale. Julia Dammann hit 17 points, Kelsey Peschel 15 and Tori Peschel and Maesyn Theisen 10 each.

Mahtomedi's Emma Grothaus scores after a steal against DeLaSalle, with Ayanna Gardner guarding her. Grothaus sank 32 points.

Mahtomedi gets payback win vs. DeLaSalle

When Mahtomedi was invited to play in the Breakdown Classic, coach Eric Prose was pleased to accept. And there was an extra perk. "They asked, who would you like to play?" Prose related. That was a no brainer. "DeLaSalle," he answered immediately.

Mahtomedi's excellent 2016-17 season (22-4) ended with a last-second, upset loss to DeLaSalle, 41-39, in the section semifinals. Given another shot at the Islanders, Mahtomedi beat them 51-38 Saturday, all the more significant considering that DeLaSalle started the season ranked No. 1 in Class 3A.

Emma Grothaus was a one-girl wrecking crew for Mahtomedi, scoring 32 of her team's 51 points. Anika Sougstad added nine. "I was so excited this whole week," said Grothaus, a 6-foot-2 senior, who averaged 19 points last year. "I couldn't wait for this game."

Nurjei Weems had 16 points and Ayanna Gardner for the Islanders (2-1), who likely will get another shot at Mahtomedi in the sectionals.

Star-Trib picks top-5 Dream Teams

By Bruce Strand

The Star-Tribune has selected its preseason Metro Dream Teams for boys and girls basketball and the boys list includes three Gopher recruits.

The girls are Minnetonka senior guard Megan Walker (Lehigh), Eastview senior forward Megan Walstad (UW-Milwaukee), Hopkins sophomore guard Paige Bueckers, Minneapolis South senior guard Morgan Hill, and Wayzata junior forward Kallie Theisen.

The No. 5 Wayzata girls pulled out a 72-71 overtime win over No. 2 Lakeville North at the Breakdown Classic as Annika Stewart delivered the go-ahead basket with 18 seconds left in the extra session. Kallie Theisen scored 21 points for the Trojans (4-0) and made a key block in the final seconds of regulation. Stewart had 15 points, Mimi Schrader 12, and Jenna Johnson and Jasmine Smiley 11 each. For Lakeville North (2-1), Ke James has 24 points, Analiese Tschida 20, Kari Macura 14 and Taylor Brown 11.

In a boys jamboree Nov. 25 at Grand Rapids, the host Thunderhawks outscored Cass Lake-Bena 39-28 in a duel of ranked teams in their respective classes. Nate Seelye, senior guard, was relentless in his lane attacking and all Cass Lake-Bena could do was foul him. Cass Lake-Bena jumped ahead early but the Thunderhawks wore them down with superior size. In other matchups, Bigfork and its pair of thousand-pointers, Dalton and

Carter Cook, topped Walker-Hackensack-Akeley 30-25, Blackduck nipped the Grand Rapids JV 28-24, and Cromwell-Wright finished strong to beat Northome-Kelliher 37-17. (Submitted by David Olson)

Section 3A has been well-represented at state tournaments in the past two decades, reports Josh Van Klombenburg of the Marshall Independent. This southwestern section has produced nine state champions since 1999 — Southwest Christian five times and Russell-Tyler-

Ruthtown and Ellsworth twice each — along with four state runners-up and four third-place teams. Ellsworth has been second three times and SWC once. Central Minnesota Christian has placed third twice.

Worthington sophomore Nyamer Diew scored 25 points and pulled down 21 rebounds to lead a 71-61 win over St. Peter on Saturday. This was one of seven games in the Big South Conference Girls Basketball Showcase in Worthington. (Worthington Globe)

Marshall freshman Jordyn Hilgemann delivered 29 points in her varsity debut, leading the Tigers past Southwest Minnesota Christian 83-79 in overtime on Saturday in a duel of top-ten ranked teams. SWC's Brooklyn DeKam sank three free shots with 20 seconds left to knot the game 72-72. Hilgemann scored Marshall's first five points in OT and they hung on. (Marshall Independent)

New Ulm junior guard Joey Batt poured in 38 points and passed the 1,000 marker on Saturday in a 74-65 win over Jackson County Central. She averaged 15.6 points last year on a 23-6 team. (New Ulm Journal)

Wayzata's Kallie Theisen blocked a shot by Lakeville North's Kari Macura just before the buzzer, sending their Breakdown game to O.T.

Double dose of talent

Soph twin sons of new coach brighten Mayo's prospects

By Bruce Strand

Rochester Mayo's basketball prospects are boosted by sophomore twins who started learning the sport in China and arrived in town this year when their father became the Spartans head coach.

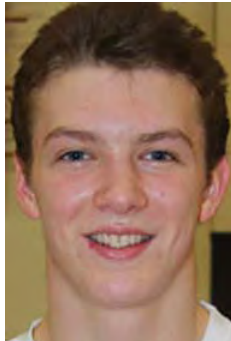

Mason Madsen, 6-foot-3 and 185 pounds, and Gabe Madsen, 6-foot-5 and 187 pounds, had excellent seasons as freshmen last year in a small Wisconsin town, Bloomer. Mason averaged 17.8 points, five rebounds and four assists. Gabe averaged 18.2 points, five rebounds.

Luke Madsen, their father, was their coach in Bloomer. After three years there with a 49-23 record, he was hired by Mayo, where he will also teach Spanish.

The former Wisconsin-River Falls player moved his family of five to China when the boys were in fifth grade. They stayed one year.

"We just made a decision to go," Madsen told the Rochester Post-Bulletin, in a feature by Guy Linbeck. "I was always coaching and hadn't gotten to spend a lot of time with them."

In China, where basketball is very popular, there were more than 20 outdoor basketball courts at their school. The boys spent two hours a day working on their game in drills supervised by Luke. Before long they were too skilled for kids their own age and started playing five-on-five games against high school-age kids.

The twins are both Division I prospects. Both received offers from Wisconsin-Green Bay and the University of Northern Iowa, the Post-Bulletin noted, and Gabe has also been offered by Marquette. The Big Ten is looking their way, too, including Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan State.

Having a constant workout partner available is a big plus for the twins, who go after each other hard. "(We are) probably too competitive, according to our mom," Mason told the Post-Bulletin. "But we compete at everything."

They are excited about playing in the Big Nine, a significant step up from their previous prep experience.

"It wasn't always that way at a small town," Gabe said, "but night in and night out, you have to be ready to play here."

The newcomers made their Mayo debut in a 61-56 win over Farmington on Tuesday. Gabe supplied 14 points and eight rebounds. Mason had eight points, six rebounds and five assists. Adam Leary added 13 points and Calvin Dixon 11.

Haiby hitting milestones, leading Spuds (4-1)

It's been an eventful first two weeks of the season for the Moorhead girls and senior star Sam Haiby.

The 5-foot-6 guard who's committed to Nebraska scored her 2,000th point Tuesday evening while pouring in 41 to lead a 75-73 win over Fargo Davies. Riley Polomny added 12 points and four assists.

The Spuds, in their opener, beat section rival and defending state champion Elk River 61-41. The Elks had won 32 straight games, all of them last senior with a senior-dominated lineup. Haiby then scored 19 points in a 57-51 loss to Wayzata (ranked No. 3), and became Moorhead's top scorer for boys and girls. Aaron Lien, currently of Minnesota-Moorhead, had 1,886 points.

The Spuds are 4-1 and ranked No. 11 in Class 4A. Looking for their first state trip since 2007, their likely top competition will be No. 9 St. Michael-Albertville. Last year, Moorhead upset STMA 77-69 (led by Haiby's 31) in the Section 8AAAA semifinals, ending the Knights' four-year reign, then lost to Elk River in the finals.
